as we see it

In a few instances—just a few, mind you—summer replacements for regular television shows are not panels or filmed repeats of winter shows. Some of the exceptions are being seen in New York, where, as Variety puts it, stations are "on a summertime cultural pitch."

One of the stations concerned, WCBS-TV, is experimenting with an 11-week series on Camera Three, the theme of which is "American Experience." Individual programs deal with such subjects as "Mark Twain and the River Boats," Markham's "The Man with the Hoe," "The Ballad of John Brown." Also on the agenda are some devoted to American folklore, architecture, dancing and museums.

WNBT and a few other NBC-owned stations are presenting educators from universities in and around New York. They appear as guests on regularly scheduled programs to talk about philosophy, archeology, drama, literature and other matters more often confined to smaller classrooms.

It could be that these subjects are too heavy for hot weather. On the other hand, it might develop that New Yorkers will welcome the relief from what has so far been a summer of unexciting television fare.

Comes summer and the busy television stations are not so busy. They have a few odd 15-minute or half-hour time segments unsold. Comes summer and the colleges close down, leaving scads of erudite and often quite entertaining professors casting about for something to do besides putter among test tubes and dusty tomes. What better use could be made of time and professors than to combine them for summer television?

A TV GUIDE SPECIAL

Who's Quitting!

BY DESI ARNAZ

There has appeared in the papers a story to the effect that Lucille Ball, who happens to be my wife, is going to quit playing in a show called I Love Lucy, in which I happen to play with her. This whole thing is ridiculous. And I have asked TV GUIDE for an opportunity to clear the matter up once and for all.

Now it's possible that Lucy might have made some such remark in a very offhand way. Everybody would like to quit work and loaf for a while. It's the kind of thing everybody tosses off a dozen times a week in casual conversation. Only with Lucy, the casual remark got picked up off the floor and blown right up to the ceiling. Lucy's quitting, it says.

In the first place, Lucy can't quit in two years even if she wanted to, which she doesn't. Our contract with Philip Morris runs until the end of the 1955-56 season. After that, CBS has the right to ask us to do two more years of the show, which would carry us through the end of the 1957-58 season.

There has even been some talk about Lucy and Vivian Vance directing a show together for Desilu Productions, but there again it is just casual conversation, thinking out loud. Trouble is, a thing like that gets into print without any qualifying explanation and everybody thinks it's a big official statement or something.

The only thing we know definitely is that our contract with our sponsor expires in 1956. That's two years from now. The way things change in this crazy business, anyone in the Top Ten who could tell for sure the best thing to do with his show two years from now could make a fortune just by advising the other nine. And I mean that. We don't know what we're going to be doing two years from now, and I doubt very much that anyone else knows what he's going to be doing either.

We might do any one of a number of things. We might put Lucy into syndication (we will have 175 Lucy films completed by then). We might do another two years of Lucy for CBS. We might do a monthly hour-long version of Lucy. We might do nothing but a picture a year. We might just do five or six guest appearances—maybe as part of these new color extravaganzas which are just getting started. We might do an entirely different series together, although I don't think that would be such a good idea. Or we might go fishing in Cuba.

I'd like to make one thing clear. Lucy has told me and a lot of other people, many times, that she's never had it so good since we've been on television. And she's right. Actually, we work only four days a week. That gives us all of Friday, Saturday and Sunday to be home with our children. Right now we are vacationing in Del Mar and are not due back until the middle of September. Our schedule gives us time for three or four weeks off around Christmas, and another week or two in the spring. Why, Lucy was the one who talked June Havoc into doing a weekly film show for just that reason—more time to herself than she's ever had before.

I repeat, we honestly don't know what we'll be doing two years from now. I'd gladly pay a lot of money to anyone who could advise us on the subject.

And I want to make one more thing crystal clear. Some people have been speculating, in print, about the possibility of I Love Lucy continuing with someone else taking Lucille's place. That is the one thing we are absolutely dead sure about: there will never be an I Love Lucy without Lucille Ball. Period. Exclamation point.

Television, like I say, is a crazy business. When you hit the top, as we've been fortunate enough to do, all sorts of crazy things happen. People say we can't last, that they're getting tired of the same old faces. So we put in a guest star now and again, like Tennessee Ernie, and the same people say, "Oh, now you're slipping. You have to use guest stars to bolster things up."

And then they say, "Dragnet is creeping up on you—you can't stay on top much longer." Well, frankly, we're not interested in staying on top forever. I don't think Jack Webb is, either. All we want to do is put on as good a show as we are capable of putting on, and we hope that the American people will continue to enjoy it.

For a change, one of Vaughn Taylor's cats, and not Taylor, is on television.

TAYLOR-MADE FOR TV

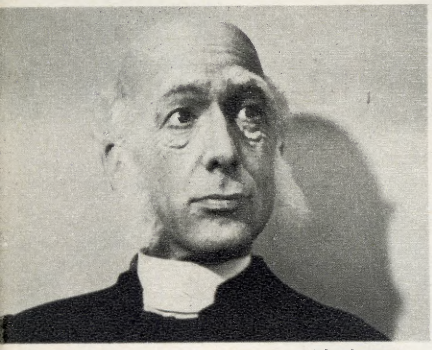
VERSATILE VAUGHN PLAYS CHARACTERS YOUNG AND OLD, SMALL AND TALL

TV's most deceptive face belongs to a sandy-haired, sandy-mustached character actor named Vaughn Taylor.

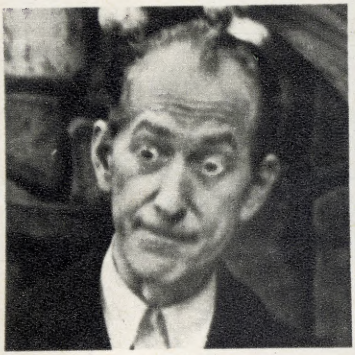
Though he looks in real life like a small-town businessman, before the cameras—to order—he becomes fat or thin, demented or handsome, sadistic or gentle.

If you are any kind of TV drama viewer, you've seen Taylor in action. Studio One, Philco Playhouse, Kraft Theater, Robert Montgomery Presents, Big Story, Man Against Crime, Martin Kane . . . he's been

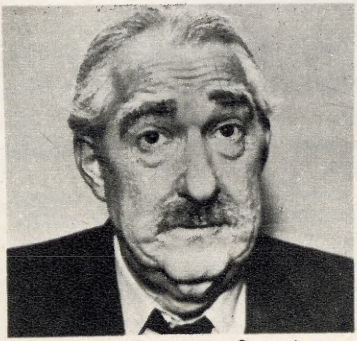
VAUGHN'S A MAN OF MANY FACES



Presto! Taylor's an archbishop. . .



A meek suitor for heroine's hand. . .



An aged but active ex-financier. . .

on all of them, and often. But you could meet him at a party or pass him on the street and never recognize that should-be-familiar face.

Taylor is long-legged, 5 foot 10½, and well-built. Yet a lot of viewers think he is a stooped, tiny-boned, gentle little fellow, because that's how he looked as Mr. Mergenthwirker. Others think Taylor is a six-foot, lean and coldly handsome man, because that's how he seemed as Henry in "Icebound." And still others think he is both ugly and dim-witted, as he appeared when he portrayed a demented Maine handyman in "Little Brown Jug."

Even TV producers and Hollywood casting directors, who are in the business and should know better, are thrown off balance when they see the real Taylor.

"For years I never walked into a producer's office without an armful of photos of my characters," Taylor says. "A producer would see me in the role of a 60- or 70-year-old man and would call me in for a similar part. When I'd show up, he'd be horrified: 'Oh no! We can't use you. You're too young.' It got monotonous."

Taylor is only 42 now. He started playing older roles in 1946 when he began acting in TV. This was after years of stage experience in summer stock, road shows and one-night stands, plus Army service that included producing and acting in plays for military instruction courses.

"It was a physical strain to act for TV in those days, because of the terrible heat," Taylor says. "There were four times as many lights then. The actors who really were up in years couldn't take it."

During those first years, about 85 percent of the roles he played were of old men. Now that his versatility as a character actor has become so well-known, these parts take up about one-quarter of the total.

The oldest character he ever portrayed was a 99-year-old man in "Harvest." Make-up plays a big part in creating a role like this, he admits. "But you need more than make-up," he adds. "You have to walk old, talk old, think old, feel old. It comes from inside."

It is this magical "something from inside" that brings Taylor's offbeat characters audience sympathy.

"You have to take the edge off unpleasantness," he explains. "If the character is not cruel or cold, just zany or demented, you have to build some sympathy for him."

Taylor has another invaluable asset—a perfect ear for diction, speech nuances, accents, dialects.

Since he is a New Englander—he was born in South Boston and acted in stage shows all through the East—he has the New England rural dialect down pat. He has mastered six more so well he can ad-lib in them: Southern, Midwestern, Irish, and three types of British—cockney, educated and North Country.

"With a little work, I can do Scandinavian, German, French and a sort of Continental," Taylor says. "The last one is for a character who is supposed to be European, but whose country mustn't be pinpointed. It has French, German and Austrian elements in it."

Taylor is an exceptionally quick study, also a result of his years of summer stock and road shows. He probably holds some kind of record for TV drama appearances. He's been on Kraft Theater 44 times; Robert Montgomery Presents, 25 or 30 times; Studio One, 20; Philco Playhouse, 12.

Taylor lives in a Greenwich Village apartment with his ex-Marine wife, Ruth Moss Taylor, an actress, and two incredibly beautiful Siamese cats, Tallulah and Tah Kiew.

Mild little Mr. Mergenthwirker . . .

Day

EIGHT TV ACTRESSES BRAVE COLD TO CELEBRATE 'HOLIDAY' AT BEACH

There's probably a Day for every member of the family—not only Mother's Day and Father's Day, but Great-Aunt Day and Third Cousin Day, too. Recently, in the interest of attractive bathing beauty pictures, TV GUIDE decided to add still another to the Day-crammed calendar—TV Daughter's Day. Whereupon eight young actresses who enact daughters on television traipsed out to a party at the Malibu beach house of writer Jerry Lawrence. The girls' enthusiasm was high; the temperature, alas, was not. But the cameraman got his pictures.

Lugene finds it co-o-old.

Life of Riley: Fact or Fiction?

BILL BENDIX IS ABSENT-MINDED, SENTIMENTAL AND A GRAND FATHER

It is a matter of recorded fact that the former Teresa Stefanotty occasionally refers to Bill Bendix as Billie, a liberty she takes primarily under the built-in protection of being Mrs. Bill Bendix. It is not a liberty the casual stranger would be wise to take.

Actually, however, the tag better suits him than the more rugged-sounding Bill. As the head man in The Life of Riley film series, he plays something of a caricature of himself —a patsy, but a knowing one; soft-hearted, but intelligently so; a square, perhaps, but with rounded corners.

Which is not to say Bendix hasn't been known to pull a Riley in his private life. Completely fagged out on his return from a recent trip East, he staggered into the house and utterly failed to recognize his own daughter. "My own daughter," he is still mumbling, "and I didn't even know her."

The following night, still beat, he made a brief appearance at a network cocktail party and was introduced to a newspaper girl suffering from a rather severe toothache. "Put a couple of drops of iodine on it," he advised her, earnestly. Having done his duty to womankind for the day, he went home. His daughter was there waiting for him. He made a point of recognizing her. Called her Iodine.

Bill and Teresa Bendix are one of those couples to whom Hollywood's defenders automatically point when critics go to work on the town's alleged lack of morals. They were childhood sweethearts back in Newark, N.J., although Bill's family lived in the Bronx. The two families were extremely close. "It used to take us two-and-a-half hours to make the trip between our homes," Tess recalls. "Now, what with the new speedways and the fast automobiles and the traffic situation, it would still take two-and-a-half hours."

Everyone, including Tess and Bill, took it for granted they would some day be married. Bill eventually got a job in a grocery store in Orange, N.J., so they could marry and live near her family. It was at that time that the Riley in him first started to show. He was so good at wrapping grocery packages that the customers started bringing in their Christmas and birthday gifts for the young Bendix boy to wrap. He's still an expert in this particular field.

Neither family had much money; Bill and Tess had practically none. Married in 1927, they ran into lean times right away. Bill, forced into an outdoor job by a bout with asthma, left the grocery store and sold Italian cheese door-to-door. He lost $240 on the venture, with his Italian backer left holding the bag.

Some years later, when he was a success in Hollywood, Bendix sent the man a check for the full amount. This so astounded his friend that he promptly sent Bill a huge box of rare and assorted cheeses. "That batch nowadays," Tess muses, "would probably cost more than the original $240."

Since that little episode, Bill has never bought anything, including houses and cars, without laying out the full cash price. He doesn't owe a dime and he refuses to invest his money in anything but U.S. bonds. "He wouldn't," Tess reflects, "put money into even a cheese factory."

Broke or not, young Bendix had been bitten by the theater bug. He kept landing small parts in small little theaters around New York. There was no money involved, of course, although one munificent producer did pay him carfare. Confident that he could lick this racket and eventually reach Hollywood, he began making a tour of the various theatrical agencies, while Tess took a job capping toothpaste tubes. To this day she uses tooth powder.

Bill stayed with the New Jersey

She calls him Billie: Bendix poses with his real wife, the former Teresa Stefanotty.

Federal Theater project for six years, commuting back and forth between occasional Broadway bits, before finally hitting it big in "The Time of Your Life." This show ran for a year in New York and then took to the road, eventually winding up at the Biltmore Theater in Los Angeles. After Bill returned to New York, a movie scout who had seen him at the Biltmore put in the fateful phone call that brought Bendix racing back to fame, fortune and—in time—The Life of Riley.

One of his first assignments was an ill-fated series of movie shorts called "The McGuerins of Brooklyn," hardly worth mentioning save for the fact they were shot on Stage Five at the Hal Roach lot—the same stage on which Bill now shoots his weekly Riley TV stint.

Bill and Tess, married 26 years and the parents of two girls, Lorraine, 24, and Stephanie, 6, live in Encino out San Fernando Valley way. Lorraine has presented them with a granddaughter, now 4, the latest and youngest entry to the growing tribe of Bendixes and Stefanottys currently holding sway in Encino.

Over a period of years, Bill has transported his mother and Tess' parents and all of Tess' brothers and sisters, save one, to California—moves which also included a passel of children. There is no truth to the rumor that this rather large and personal addition to the population of Encino was directly responsible for Bill's having been elected, at one time, mayor of this thriving little community.

Bill's affection for both his family and Encino is perhaps best illustrated by the story of a second honeymoon, taken on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. They went to Palm Springs, prepared for a big time. But they found their suite so comfortable they decided just to stay there and have a roast beef sandwich together. Next morning they looked at each other and said, "Isn't this ridiculous? Who wants Palm Springs?" Whereupon they returned posthaste to home, hearth and Encino.

That little bit of Jersey and the Bronx out there hasn't hurt the town a bit.

Chicago Dateline

Week's Highlights: WBKB will offer a remote simulcast Sunday Aug. 1 (2:30 to 4 P.M.) from Glenview Naval Air Station, covering the 23rd annual National Model Airplane Championships finals. Tom Duggan and Vince Garrity will co-emcee the show, third of a special events series on WBKB Sunday afternoons.

Advance Tips: Here's another perfect example of inter-station cooperation: WGN-TV's Pat Stevens and WBKB's Tom Duggan have joined forces to choose Chicago's candidate for Miss America honors. The lucky lass will be chosen in the Aug. 16 finals and will then appear on Tom's show. She will also be groomed by Miss Stevens, a former professional model, for the Labor Day event in Atlantic City.

WGN-TV's Bob Atcher is prepping a new Saturday show for Channel 9 in cooperation with the Tovs Council. Debut date: Sept. 11, at 10:30 A.M.

A shrewd sponsor finally signed to foot part of the bills for WBBM-TV's In Town Tonight. Starting Aug. 16, a soft drink company will pay the Monday tab. Show will also experiment with a guest-star policy.

The Chicago Symphony launches another season Oct. 13 in the 8 to 9 P.M. Wednesday slot on WGN-TV.

Channel Chatter: WGN-TV's Ernie Simon may be the healthiest man in town at the end of the Boys' Major League Baseball telecasts which he emcees (7 P.M. Wednesdays). In keeping with the tone of the program, Ernie downs seven glasses of milk during each telecast!

Brian Donlevy, target for bullets and knives as Steve Mitchell of TV's Dangerous Assignment, co-stars with Maria Riva at Hinsdale Salt Creek Theater in The Country Girl. It opens Aug. 23.

CBS' private secretary, Ann Sothern, opens in a not-so-private public appearance at the Chez Paree Aug. 3.

CHET ROBLE

IT MAY BE HOT OUTSIDE, BUT MAN, HE'S COOL!

BACK in the good old days of the cool crew cut, there lived a gone jazz man who sported the craziest haircut ever. Called it the "Box Clip." A snappy style it was, too, with sides clipped straight and top leveled smooth. And would you believe it? Pretty soon all the cats in the neighborhood were copying him. Man, it was the absolute end!

This was about three years ago. Since then, the hepcat who inspired it all—Chet Roble by name—has thinned out slightly on top. And that has made his "Box Clip" more gone than ever.

'But while his hair may be fading, Uncle Chet isn't losing one whit of that spellbinding touch on the 88's. Recognized as one of the top jazz pianists of the era, he has played his way into more entertainment roles than a trained seal. Currently, he's enjoying a 1½ year run on Danny O'Neil's TV shows (11 A.M., Mon. through Fri., and 11:30 P.M., Mon., both on WBKB). Tuesday through Friday nights he makes music at the Sherman Hotel Lounge and on Saturday nights, the Chez Paree lounge echoes his piano magic.

Uncle Chet has been dubbed the "Barefoot Jazz Man," a title which was tacked on back in the early days, when he developed his two-beat jazz specialty —which he played barefoot. More recently, the title has become synonymous with his piano styling—a shoes-off type of relaxed playing that has left an impressive mark on all jazz fans. Experts describe his variety of music as a mellow mixture of New Orleans and Chicago jazz, Dixie and the Blues.

A product of Chicago's Northwest side, Chet took his schooling here. In 1930, he quit the University of Illinois to join a dance band with which he toured Chicago night spots. Later, he was booked in the locally-prominent Helsing's Lounge for a two-week stand, but stayed for 3½ years.

Then he formed his own trio and toured the country, returning just in time to become an early smash hit in Chicago television. One of the industry's first local favorites, he has appeared on Tin Pan Alley-TV, The Mary Hartline Show, Challenge, Simply Simon, Garroway-At-Large, Hawkins Falls, and was one of the four favorite habituees of Studs Place.

In today's crazy mixed-up television world, Chet looks like one of the few stable commodities. And, while Chicago's jazz enthusiasts consider him real gone, they also hope he'll never be real gone from the Windy City, Dig us?

How to make a Gin-and-Tonic

by Commander Whitehead of Schweppes

"To make Gin-and-Tonic just mix a jigger of gin, ice, and Schweppes Quinine Water in a highball glass. Stir—and enjoy. Today, Schweppes Quinine Water, made from the original imported elixir, is being bottled here in this city. Your dealer sells it for very little more than the price of ordinary mixers. —Adv.

DOROTHY SHAY, the fabulous "Park Avenue Hillbillie" stars in the Empire Room of the Palmer House, with her lackadaisical songs of Uncle Fud, the Mountain Gal and all those who go "Feudin' Fightin' and Fussin'." Godfrey sets the record straight! Get the answers from the man who knows . . . Arthur Godfrey himself! His cast . . . his shows . . . his plans . . . frankly discussed . . . in next week's TV GUIDE.

ON SALE THURSDAY

Please address all letters to Regional Editor TV Guide, 731 S. Plymouth Ct., Chicago 5, Ill.

For Godfrey's Complaint Department

I am writing to ask you for the address of Arthur Godfrey. I would like to write to him on his Talent Scouts Program because I have a complaint to make.—Carmella Metallo, Kenosha, Wis. (Send your gripes to Arthur Godfrey, c/o CBS-TV, 485 Madison Ave., New York 22.—Ed.)

A Valid Reason

I always watch Lucille Ball on I Love Lucy because she's so adorable. She is, without a doubt, the prettiest girl on TV. Could you tell me where I could write her?—Sue Spangler, South Bend Indiana. (Write to Lucy, c/o CBS-TV, 1313 N. Vine St., Hollywood 28, Calif.—Ed.)

Ball

And Now, A Word ABOUT Sponsors

Mrs. Hubers and son are right about the Gene Autry Show. She said that they advertise too much. I like his movies, but I don't like the advertisements. With so many advertisements, they don't show all of the movie. They leave out some parts that are needed to make the movie make sense.—Dick Ernst, Barrington, Ill.

Well, He Leads A Dog's Life

Each week I look forward to seeing my favorite comedy, Topper. Anne Jeffreys, Robert Sterling and Leo G. Carroll play their parts to the "T." Still, the star of the show is Neil, and there should be more about him in the programs.—Beverly Schultz, Marseilles, Ill.

TV Family Truex—All Actors

The Truex family turns out TV actors wholesale—10 Truexes, in three generations. The senior—and busiest—member of the clan is Ernest, who regularly portrays Jamie's grandfather and Mrs. Peepers' father. His wife, Sylvia Field, also plays his wife in Mr. Peepers. Perched between them is granddaughter Penny; behind them, from left, are daughter-in-law Victory Abbott, son James, daughter Sally Moffet, son Philip, daughter-in-law Eve. Away on a stage tour when this photograph was made were two more TV veterans, son Barry and his wife Lizanne.

THE FACE IS FAMILIAR, BUT . . .

The Name's NOT The Same

Can you name your favorite TV personalities—really name them? Don't be too sure. So many entertainers use prettified show business labels that a TV program tagged The Name's NOT The Same could run for months with all-star casts.

Would you rush to watch Benny Kubelsky, Margaret Theresa Yvonne Reed or Leonard Slye?

Probably not. But presto-change! and these people emerge as Jack Benny, Martha Raye and Roy Rogers.

In many cases, TV stars' workaday monickers have had odd origins.

Tom Conway, sleuth - in - chief on Mark Saber, was the wrong guesser in a "heads or tails" routine. He and his younger brother, film star George Sanders, tossed a coin to see who would retain the family name for his acting career.

Josephine Owaissa Cottle entered a national contest for would-be movie performers. The feminine winner automatically became "Gale Storm," a name Miss Cottle (Mrs. Lee Bonnell, really—she married the male finalist in the very same contest) still uses as co-star of My Little Margie.

Thomas Garrison Morfit, a rising young radio performer, offered a cash prize to the listener who suggested the most suitable substitute for this unmanageable mouthful. The winning entry: Garry Moore.

Eunice Quedens, dissatisfied with the tempo of her career as a stock company Bernhardt, lifted the labels of two cosmetic bottles to make her own. Now, as Eve Arden, she beautifies Our Miss Brooks.

A similar marriage of names was effected by comedian Amos Jacobs, who helped himself to the first names of two brothers: Danny and Thomas.

Marjorie Chandler, who had always envied the nomenclature of her elder sister Dorothy, suggested a swap at the start of her singing career. But a Dorothy Chandler was already in the vocalizing trade, so "Dorothy" Chandler chose a new surname, too. For Your Hit Parade and cigaret commercials, she's Dorothy Collins.

Joseph Conrad Lind's switch-over to Peter Lind Hayes was also a family affair. When he began a vaudeville tour with his performer mother, Grace Hayes, he changed his name to italicize the relationship.

Because Joanna Boniface Winnifrith was impressed by a biography of a Civil War general, the British actress is now known on It's News To Me and other programs as Anna Lee.

Red hair and the button-studded costume of a singing bellhop won Aaron Chwatt a new name from a forgetful emcee: Red Buttons.

William Edward Maguinness wasn't consulted, either, when a theater owner chopped the name of a visiting vaudeville emcee to fit the theater's marquee. That's why the Amateur Hour host is called Ted Mack.

Other candidates for The Name's NOT The Same make a long, long list. There's Dino Crocetti (Dean Martin) & Jerry Levitch (Jerry Lewis), John Florence Sullivan (Fred Allen), Reginald Truscott-Jones (Ray Milland), Demi James Sposa (Dennis James) and many more.

Armed Services Recruit TV To Aid Nation's Defense and Provide...

The world is familiar with the picture of generals plotting the course of battles on huge charts at headquarters. Information comes pouring in from couriers, field telephones and walkie-talkies.

Often this data is inaccurate because it arrives at second or third hand or is the fruit of faulty observation. Sometimes vital information is hours, or even days, late, despite newest and most scientific methods.

"Newest and most scientific" before the era of television, that is.

But if another war should come, the generals will be able personally to follow developments along strategic sectors of the front on a battery of video screens.

For the past two years our Armed Forces, especially the Army, have been experimenting with field television. In the most extensive trials, at West Point summer maneuvers last year, and "Exercise Flashburn" at Fort Bragg, N.C., this spring, TV received stern tests under simulated battle conditions.

Television, the teacher: cameras telecast a lesson in soldering Army equipment.

Only regular commercial equipment was used. Crews carried portable, hand-held TV cameras to pick up the ground action under a variety of difficult situations. Other cameras were carried on jeeps. Relay transmitting units, mounted on trailers, picked up the signals and sent them 20 miles or more to headquarters.

In one air test, a plane-based TV camera circled an area picked for artillery barrage. It transmitted its signal to a portable transmitter on the ground which, in turn, sent the picture on to headquarters. Miles away, the shellbursts were watched on television screens and range-directions issued to the artillery.

Kinescope facilities made motion pictures of the action, and a new gadget called the "Telespot" produced instantaneous still pictures for close study.

The Army has found mobile television valuable for "location, evaluation and designation of artillery targets; adjustment and control of artillery fire; data transmission; intelligence and reconnaissance; briefing tactical commanders; observation and control of amphibious landings, river crossings and assaults; and harbor surveillance."

The Air Force has a special angle. At Hamilton Base, in California, it is transmitting TV weather briefings to several parts of the base simultaneously. Officers say briefing information for planes about to take off is disseminated at least 30 minutes faster than by telephone, teletype and radio.

The Army, Navy and Air Force have found TV invaluable in giving identical instruction to large or scattered units of men. TV gives the services the maximum use of facilities and equipment for training purposes; it brings distant, or inaccessible, objects before groups anywhere in the U. S.

The Navy has just installed a new $250,000 teaching system in the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Tests proved learning effectiveness to be far superior when TV was utilized. This is particularly so in "how to" instruction—how to assemble weapons, how to make a pack, etc. Seems today's trainees, used to Captain Video, Dragnet, Milton Berle on their home sets, take to television instruction as ducks to water.

Four TV Heroes Investigate

The Case Of The Kidnaped Cutie

Honest, folks, this didn't happen—not even on TV. It's just an observer's idea of how four TV sleuths would act if a girl disappeared.

Joe Friday was listening to his partner, Frank Smith, complain of a toothache when he got the word from his boss, Captain Didian.

The missing girl was Susan Schmidt, 15, an average girl from an average family. Joe and Frank questioned her father, Sam, 63, proprietor of a taproom; her mother, Hilda, 60; her brothers, Fritz, 28, Herman, 26, Henry, 24, Wilbur, 22 and George, 20; and her sisters, Mathilde, 13, Gertrude, 11, Marie, 9, Geraldine, 7 and Rita, 2.

They visited the neighbors, brown-haired Dorothy Wilson, 28; grey-haired Irene Ward, "over 21" and bald Henry Croveny, 55. When asked, "Is anything wrong?" Joe said, "We just want to ask a few questions."

They talked to the missing girl's school chum, Mary Tomack, 15, who said, "I sure hope you find her; she's wearing my best sweater."

They put a stake-out on Susan's home. They sent an APB on TT, with her description and a report she was the victim of a 1252 (Kidnaping), a 959 (Murder) or a 23 (Skidoo).

In the afternoon, the Tomack girl called to report Susan and her boy friend, John Wallace, 17, had planned to cut school and decorate their clubroom with Eddie Tisher (the name has been changed to protect the innocent) pictures. Joe and Frank hurried to a nearby store. They found Susan and John buying equipment: "We just want to get the tacks, ma'am."

The pair was booked on a 12B (Hookey). Frank's tooth still hurt.

Michael Powers was in the Associated News office in Bodonia, smoking his pipe and leaning against the tense background of present-day Europe when news came that Suzanne von Schmidt, beautiful daughter of the Minister of State, had been kidnaped.

Powers donned his fur-collared coat (Robert Cannon made off with the last trench coat when he left the show) and went to the minister's imposing home.

Powers sneaked around to the side. Suddenly, a bullet whizzed past his head. This aroused his curiosity. He sneaked around to the back of the house, where he spotted three sinister men stowing a wriggling bundle in the trunk of a sinister sports car.

They wore dark hats pulled down over their faces but Powers recognized them as Wertzhartz, Flauerhartz and Bleidinghartz, of the underground. The sinister group got into the sinister sports car and drove off.

Powers jumped into his own sports car and gave chase over a narrow, twisting road to a farm. Two of the sinister men entered; one stood guard.

Powers sneaked behind a hedge and raced through the snow to the car. He threw his coat over the guard's head, shoved a pipe in his back like a gun and disarmed him.

Powers, using the car's gasoline intake pipe as a speaking tube, then conducted a trunkside interview with Suzanne. Then he drove the car to town, keeping her in the trunk so the story would be exclusive.

Rocky King's assistant, Hart, breezed into Rocky's office and started to describe the case when Rocky's wife, Mabel, called to report that their son, Junior, had gone to school without his overshoes.

Hart was telling Rocky the missing girl was Susan Schmidt, a nurse at Municipal Hospital, when Mabel called again to say she had made a mistake. Junior did wear his overshoes. The ones in the closet belonged to the Jones boy—"You know, dear, that nice lad who stayed with Junior last weekend."

Rocky started for the door, tripped over his lines and fell. When he got up, Mabel called again to say that it was not the Jones boy, but Jackie Watson who had stayed with Junior last weekend. The Jones boy was the one who stopped by last Tuesday.

Rocky put his hat on the back of his head and accompanied Hart to the hospital. When they got there Mabel called to ask Rocky to bring home a pound of butter.

Rocky fired some fast questions at hospital personnel and learned that the missing girl had been threatened by one of the doctors. He and Hart put on their hats and went to the doctor's home. They got there as the doctor was about to shoot the girl. The telephone rang as Rocky moved to grab him. The caller was Mabel, who wanted to know how the case was coming. While they talked, the doctor shot and killed the nurse.

Steve Wilson got the word while he was dictating an editorial to his girl Friday, Lorelei Kilbourne. The missing girl was sweet young Susan Schmidt Jackson, wife of Eddie, sweet young mechanic.

Eddie told Steve that Susan had been kidnaped by a numbers writer because she had threatened to tell the police when the numbers writer refused to pay off. Steve called the district attorney, who demanded more evidence before he would act. This angered Steve, who started to dictate another editorial. With that completed, he called Pete, the pressroom foreman, and told him to get ready to break up the front page. Lorelei, irked by the delay, stomped out.

She followed a trail of torn-up numbers slips to an abandoned ice house. She found Susan bound and gagged in an abandoned packing case. She was about to rescue Susan when the numbers writers came along and shoved her in an abandoned closet.

An hour later, Steve looked up and noticed Lorelei was gone. He followed a trail of pages from her shorthand notebook to the abandoned ice house. There he found the girls just as the numbers writer and a pal returned.

Steve kayoed the pal with an abandoned ice cube, disarmed the numbers writer with a smile and demanded he pay Susan. When he refused, Steve threatened another editorial. The racketeer gave in. There in the ice house, he paid off in cold cash.—Chas. Shapiro.

Summer Holiday

PROGRAM OF THE WEEK

Without the vivacious personality of Betty Ann Grove, Summer Holiday would have to be written off as a well-produced, well-directed but routinely conceived effort whose pattern by now is all too familiar. It poses an increasingly annoying problem; that is, how does one go about doing a "different" musical TV show? Perry Como, Dinah Shore and the Hit Parade set the original pattern—with such an impact that virtually everything else in the field has been distressingly similar.

Summer Holiday has taken a leaf from all their books and is trying to make a chapter of its own. The girl singer is there, the male singer is there, the dancers are there and the currently popular tunes get a good going over. While it's all done very professionally and bespeaks a lot of hard work on everyone's part, the net result can only be called a highly legible carbon copy of all that has gone before. It is perhaps the curse of the summer replacement that the proper amount of time and genuine creative thinking simply isn't available. The next best thing, of course, is to play it safe and deliver the tried and the true, which is precisely what the producers of this show have done. It's like staying home at vacation time—no change, but no miserable experience with an untried resort either.

Miss Grove, aided and abetted by Merv Griffin, does her level best to inject some punch into Summer Holiday and almost succeeds by sheer force of personality. While her voice has no particular quirks of its own, she herself is a cute little elf with plenty of experience in front of the cameras. Unfortunately, she is not yet a big enough name to rise above the routine format, although she just might be by summer's end.

Otherwise, this show is strictly for those who can't wait to see how still another singer will handle "Three Coins in the Fountain." For everyone else, it makes for pleasant background music at dinner time.

The Paul Whiteman Show

Television must continually develop new young talent. One of the best places to find such talent is on a TV amateur program. Ergo, we'll continue to have TV amateur shows.

Most recent of the TV tyro-testers is Paul Whiteman's On the Boardwalk, the first regularly-scheduled show to emanate from Atlantic City. As amateur programs go, it's okay, offering at least one new twist to what is basically an old-hat idea. But the show will never entice a monumental number of viewers to stay indoors on a summery Sunday evening.

In the show, three or four new acts try out each week, playing on a bare stage before a blank curtain. The winner, chosen by a panel of established performers or celebrities, is invited to appear the following week in a fully-mounted number, complete with costumes, sets and props.

As an extra fillip, Whiteman presents a weekly guest artist and one or two orchestra numbers to round out the program for younger viewers.

Paul Whiteman and friends: he searches for TV talent by the sea.

FINE TUNING

By OLLIE CRAWFORD

Television to cover Landy-Bannister mile race. This will be the greatest mile since Ogg outfooted the dinosaur.

In a total of four minutes, these boys can run a mile and soft boil an egg.

This is such a big race, they may call it the Cecil B. De Mile. With Landy and Bannister, all it needs is Godfrey's horse. If this TV show lasts more than four minutes, it's a flop.

The only guy on TV who can hold a candle to these boys is Liberace.

Landy and Bannister are about the only thing Willie Mays can't catch. These boys go faster than your pay. It sounds like a great show for a spray deodorant called "Whhssssht!"

They can do the mile faster than the announcer can do the middle commercial.

The starter will fire right at them and whichever one the bullet catches is ruled the loser.

In a mile race, they start out with short pants and end up with long gasps.

Busy Bea

GRACIE ALLEN'S 'NEIGHBOR' BUZZES BETWEEN TV AND RADIO

Among radio's many gifts to television is one Bea Benaderet—whose name and face were wholly unknown to the general public until she first appeared, three years ago, as Blanche Morton, the neighbor, on the George Burns and Gracie Allen Show. So far as the audience was concerned, she was a newcomer, albeit a pretty good one. Girl could act. Remarkable how fast they learn in this television business.

Miss Benaderet smiles wanly at this oft-repeated but highly inaccurate appraisal of her career. Anonymity has long been the lot of radio performers, however gifted. Only by their voices do most people know them.

Miss Benaderet is a dialectician. She was known by radio listeners only as Gertrude Gearshift of the "Jack Benny Show" or Amber Lipscott on "My Friend Irma" or Eve Goodwin on "The Great Gildersleeve" or Mrs. Atterbury on "My Favorite Husband" (with Lucille Ball and Richard Denning—remember?) or Mrs. Carstairs on "Fibber McGee and Molly"—and even as Dennis Day's aunt. But as Bea Benaderet? Never.

Today's radio-only audience, in fact, is probably still quite unaware that the actress playing Mama on "Meet Millie" is Bea Benaderet. For that matter, even Burns and Allen TV fans who listen to "Meet Millie" on radio probably don't suspect they're listening to their own Blanche Morton.

Living proof of the generally accepted fact that radio veterans make first-rate TV actors, Bea got her start in San Francisco when she was spotted singing a minor role in a children's production of "The Beggar's Opera." Coming to Hollywood in 1936, she soon became a working regular, getting her first breaks with Orson Welles and Jack Benny. Prior to her entry into TV, she was considered one of those rare actresses without whom a really good radio show wasn't really considered good.

Divorced, Bea lives in Encino with her two children, Jack, 14, and Maggie, 7.

Her closest friend, both on and off camera: Gracie Allen.

SPORTS

Rocketing TV Star

A new television star was born this summer; or rather, an old, somewhat used glamor-puss came up with new material. The sport season's top pin-up boy is Leo Ernest Durocher, and his material is a couple of braw, bright lads named Willie Mays and Johnny Antonelli. Thanks largely to them, the Giants have been generating wilder excitement in the video set than Howdy Doody, Roy Cohn or lady wrestlers.

As midsummer came on and the Giants went ripping through the National League, laying waste among the enemy and sacking Brooklyn with bestial cruelty, they fired the public imagination as no team had done since the Giants passed their pennant-winning miracle in 1951.

Even in Chicago, where the newspapers ordinarily ignore the existence of New York, Durocher's operatives were getting banner headlines. There were interviews with Fred Fitzsimmons, the Giant coach, and Frank Frisch, the Polo Grounds hero of the McGraw era; and feature stories about individual craftsmen like Marvin Grissom, the relief pitcher.

After the Dodgers were racked up three times in the Polo Grounds and three times more in Ebbets Fields, there was a television documentary on how Brooklyn was taking it. Brooklyn was taking it like arsenic.

One year earlier, Durocher had been a prominent candidate for a seat on a park bench.

"The Giants is dead," quoth Brooklyn's Charley Dressen, and he was disputed only by grammarians. From ambush in the press box, snipers bounced musket balls off Durocher's bald skull. Only the defiant obstinancy of his boss, Horace Stoneham, saved the manager's job.

Twelve months later, the Little Shepherd of Coogan's Bluff was being acclaimed as a ring-tailed genius. His brain waves blew out picture tubes on sets tuned to the Giants' games, and that's where practically every set in range was tuned daily. Pundits sought his secret.

They didn't find it, because there isn't any. Durocher is the same manager this year that he was last. He is an uncompromising competitor, a gambler and a passionate winner, and when he has men who can play ball they play it with a dash that reflects his own unique temperament.

He hasn't the patience to get optimum performance from a poor team, but no one has a sounder grasp on baseball strategy and when he has men who can make the plays he employs this knowledge with daring and effect.

Among the many factors that have contributed to the Giants' improvement on the field, the most important are Mays and Antonelli. The latter put backbone into the pitching staff. The former put fire into Giant veins. The summer's show of shows may not have a happy ending, but it's been wonderful to watch this far.
